Wednesday, July 28. 1714.

London, July 28.

Yesterday arrived the Mail due from France.

From the Paris Gazette, dated August 4.

Madrid, July 16.

A Courier dispatched by the Cardinal del Giudice, has brought the News, that the Peace between Spain and Holland was Signed the 26th of last Month, and that the Person nominated to bring the Treaty hither, would set out with all Expedition.

From the Camp before Barcelona, July 14. We have Intelligence that there are in the Place but 1100 Men of regular Troops, of whom 600 are Deserters, who come over to us again when they find Opportunity, the rest consisting of Burglers and Miguelets. The 4th 17 Deserters came out of the Town; and the 6th an Officer with 30 Hussars abandoned his Post and came into the Quarters of the Duke de Popoli. The 7th the Marshal Duke of Berwick arrived in the Camp with 10 Battallions, and he alighted at the House which had been possessed by the Duke de Popoli, who we are assured is speedily to return to Madrid. The besieged have made a greater Fire from their Cannon and Mortars since the Arrival of the Marshal Duke of Berwick, who immediately went to view the Situation of the Place, as also the Posts about the Camp and the Train of Artillery with the Stores of Ammunition. The 8th at Night, the Bailly de Bellefontaine being advertised by a Signal made by Commodore d'Aligre, that the Fleet and Convoy which the Besieged expected from Majorca were approaching, ordered the Squadron to get under Sail and stand out to Sea. The 9th at 3 in the Morning, the said Fleet was descried to the South-East, advancing towards the Mouth of the Llobregat with a slack North-West Wind. It consisted of 45 Barks, Tartans, Pinks, and Brigantines, with four Frigates for the Convoy, laden with Bread, Corn, Wine, Biscuit, Salted Flesh, Game, and other Provisions. The French Men of War, a Galley, and a Brigantine attacked them about 3 in the Morning. 20 of the largest Vessels were taken, as was also a Frigate of from between 25 to 30 Guns laden with Oil, and a Bark laden with Wheat was sunk. The Vessels with Oars, the three Frigates, and some others escaped into the Port. Most of the Mariners of the Priests escaped into the Port likewise in their Shallops and Capows, others swam ashore near the Llobregat, but the Walloons who are incamped there, and to whom the Rebels had on several Occasions given no Quarter, put them to the Sword, some excepted who saved themselves by swimming. The Night between the 12th and 13th the Frenches were opened on the Side towards the Sea Eastward, at the Distance of 300 Toises from the Town, and were carried on within 100 Toises of the Counterscarp. There were 2500 Workmen, 10 Battallions, 10 Companies of Grenadiers, and a Body of Horse to cover the Flanks. A false Attack was made between the Town and Montjuy, for a Diversion. The Besieged redoubled the Fire of their Cannon and Mortars: They made a Sally with Foot and Horse, and killed some Soldiers, but were repulsed with considerable Loss. They are making Intrenchments and Mines behind their Bastions and Ramparts, the greatest Part of them showing a Resolution to defend themselves to the last Extremity, though in a Council which they have held, several proposed to surrender. To Day they sent an Officer to the Bailly de Bellefontaine, but he sent him back without a hearing. There are in the Camp 33 Battallions of French, and 17 more are to arrive the 18th or 20th.

Paris, Aug. 4. The 2d of this Month, the Duke d'Anguien and the Prince de Conty, the Duke du Maine and the Count de Toulouse, went to the Palais. The Peers assembled there, were, the Archbishop Duke of Rheims, the Bishop Count de Noyon, Ecclesiasticks: The Duke d'Uzes, the Duke de Sully, the Duke de Saint Simon, the Duke de la Force, the Duke de Rohan, the Duke de Luxembourg, the Duke d'Estrees, the Duke de Grammont, the Duke de Mazarin, the Duke de Tremes, the Duke de Noailles, the Duke de Charost, the Duke d'Albret, the Duke de la Tremoille, the Duke de Chaulnes, the Duke de Villars, and the Duke d'Antin. The Business was to cause to be registred an Edict issued by the King, in favour of the Duke du Maine and of the Count de Toulouse, by which his Majesty signifies, that he had observed with Satisfaction that they have rendered themselves worthy of the Name they bear; that he had judged likewise he ought to enable them to enjoy the Privileges of their Birth, by carrying his Views further in favour of those Princes; and prudent Foresight requiring from his Love for the Tranquillity of his Kingdom, that he should prevent the Calamities and Troubles which might arise, if all the lawful Princes of his August House should come to fail, so that not one should be left to be Heir to the Crown; His Majesty's Will is, that the Crown should devolve and be transferred with full Right to his said legitimate Sons, the Duke du Maine and the Count de Toulouse, and to their Male Children and Descendants for ever, born and to be born in lawful Marriage; preserving among themselves the Order of Succession, and preferring always the eldest Branch to the younger, declaring them by this Edict, capable in the fore-mentioned Case only of the Failure of all the lawful Princes of his Blood, of succeeding to the Crown of France, exclusively of all others; His Will being likewise, that their Descendants for ever, born in lawful Marriage, have Entrance and Seat in his Court of Parliament, at the same Age as the Princes, tho' they should have no Peerages, without being obliged to take an Oath there, and that they there receive and enjoy the same Honours that are paid to the Princes of his Blood; that they be in all Places and on all Occasions looked upon and treated as Princes of his Blood, after (however) all the said Princes of his Blood, and before all the other Princes of Sovereign Houses, and all other Lords of what Dignity soever; and that this Right and these Privileges be attached to their Persons and to those of their Descendants for ever, because of the Honour and Advantage which which they have to be sprung from his Majesty, derogating from his Edicts of May 1694 and May 1711 in whatever they may be contrary to this Present Edict. M. de Mesmes first President having explained the King's Intentions, M. Joly de Fleury Advocate-General presented his Majesty's Edict, which was read: The Chambers assembled, the Arrest for registering it was pronounced conformably to the Conclusions of the Procurator-General.

From the Paris Letter, dated August 4. Paris, Aug. 4. We learn by Advices from Lisbon of the 12th of July, that that Court being informed of the Conclusion of the Peace between the King of Spain and the States General, by the Mediation of the King of France, had resolved in a great Council held on that Subject, to write to his most Christian Majesty, to desire likewise his Mediation. Revivifying Drops for Barrenness in Women and Impediment in Men. Which renovate the vital Ferment of the Blood, rectify the languid State of all the Fluids, rekindle, fortify, and invigorate the Spirit, disengage the Nerves, restore juvenile Warmth, produce a sparkling Gladness and ardent Courage to flow in the Veins, and expand it self through the whole human System, so as speedily to cure all Cold, and moist Diseases, that by binding down the Spirit, depress the Mind, and damp the soul's Faculties, languish in a great measure the Lamp of Life, and cause Barrenness and Infertility. They powerfully strengthen and corroborate all Parts of the Body, especially promote Conception, and render both Sexes prodigiously in a wonderful manner, as very large Experience in private Practice testifies. It is sold only at Mr. Osborn's Tosthop, at the Pole and Crown under St. Dunstan's Church in Fleet-Street, Price 2 s. the Bottle with Directions.
